FELL IN ACTION Lieut. Charles Stanton Further news of the death in action of Lieut. Charles Stanton, of Burragorang, is contained in an official report from the Australian Red Cross Society. On the night of May 22, Lieut. Stanton led a fighting patrol to prevent the enemy from using a beach at Crete. It was during this action that he was fatally wounded. His men lay him to rest beside his captain, who had previously fallen, in an olive grove on a hill, immediately south-end of Retimo Aerodrome, Crete.

To Replace H.M.A.S. "Sydney" It is expected that Camden Council will launch an early local appeal to raise n district quota for the £2,000,000 fund to replace the lost H.M.A.S. "Sydney".

12th December Decision to evacuate civilians from Darwin

NATIONAL EMERGENCY 100 Wardens Needed It was an urgent necessity for local men to immediately enrol for the positions of Wardens in order to protect themselves, their wives, families and neighbours in the event of a possible air attack, declared Warden-Instructor Harold Lowe to a packed gathering at Camden Town Hall library room on Tuesday night. Mr. Lowe was later thanked for his interesting general outline of wardens' duties. He also briefly explained the effects of different types of bombs and how their destructive qualities could be minimised by prompt action. The Chief Warden (Aid. H . S. Kelloway) and Deputy Warden (Mr. K. B. Wilson) also addressed the meeting. Intending wardens—100 are needed in the Camden Municipality—are asked to enrol at the Camden Town Hall and to attend the first warden's meeting on Tuesday evening next at the Town Hall.

A CALL TO WOMEN The National Emergency Services can provide a job for practically every woman. Miss Nancy Freestone will be pleased to supply any information required. On Tuesday afternoon 'members of Camden C.W.A. branch and the local W.V.S. Centre decided to increase their effects in camouflage net making. Instructional classes will be held on Monday nights at 7.30, Tuesday and Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the C.W.A. rooms.

Further particulars may be obtained by telephoning Camden 124 or Camden 150, Readers' attention is directed to the Camden Council's National Emergency Services' advertisement on page two

With the R.A.A.F. in Darwin. 'Just a few lines to let you know that I received the parcel for which I thank you very much," wrote Aircraftman Carl Greentree, a former Orangeville boy, in a letter from Darwin to Camden W.V.S. Centre. It was a very pleasant surprise to know that I am still remembered dear old Camden," he stated. "I was especially glad to receive the copy of the Camden Advertiser. I have never yet seen a paper of its type that gave such a comprehensive cover of a district's activities," he declared. Carl-reported that Darwin's wet season was getting under way. More than two inches of rain fell in 30 minutes on the day he penned the letter (November 10). "I suppose I'll see the grass attain its usual 10 feet before I leave here," he added.
